Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-53, drawn to requesting and collecting information, classified in class 705, subclass 14.
- II. Claims 54-63, drawn to network, classified in class 709, subclass 223.
- III. Claim 64, drawn to searching, classified in class 707, subclass 3.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions of group I and II-III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention of group I has separate utility such as entering duration in which the request is active. This separate use distinguishes the invention of group I from group II and III since the feature of entering duration is not limitation of those independently claimed inventions. Therefore the invention of group I is a separately useable subcombination. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions of group II and I, III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention of group II has separate utility such as a supplier system and clearinghouse system. This separate use distinguishes the invention of group II from group I and III since the supplier and clearinghouse is not limitation of those independently claimed inventions. Therefore the invention of group II is a separately useable subcombination. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Art Unit: 3622

Inventions of group III and I and II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention of group III has separate utility such as email account connected to a dynamic request data system and the dynamic request data system delivering requested information to the email account. This separate use distinguishes the invention of group I from group II-III since the feature of email account connected to a dynamic request data system and the dynamic request data system delivering requested information to the email account is not limitation of those independently claimed inventions. Therefore the invention of group I is a separately useable subcombination. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

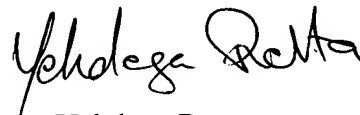

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
